Hopefully by now, you've already written to your legislators to share your insight and experience. Many schools are unable to successfully comply with recent and upcoming school meal regulations. They deserve the chance to come up to speed with training, funding and implementation so that they can successfully feed children nourishing, healthy meals. If you haven't written yet, please click here to do so now!

Another great way to stay in touch is to call Congress! Don't underestimate the impact of a personal phone call -- it's an effective way to keep the issue at the forefront of their minds.

Please contact the US Capitol Switchboard at (202) 224-3121 and ask to be connected to your US House Representatives office. Once connected, let the staff member know you are a constituent and school nutrition professional and then urge your member to speak out on the House floor in defense of the waiver that would allow struggling schools a temporary reprieve.

Additional background information is available here and here.

If you need any assistance locating your Representative you can reach out SNA's Child Nutrition Policy Coordinator, Nadia Egziabher, at negziabher@schoolnutrition.org.
